Where is OCCRP headquartered?

OCCRP's headquarters are in Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina. This strategic location keeps the organization close to the regions where many of its most critical investigations take place. From its Sarajevo office, OCCRP coordinates its global work against organized crime and corruption.

The choice of Sarajevo is not accidental. Bosnia and Herzegovina has been at the center of numerous corruption and organized crime scandals, which makes OCCRP's presence in the region all the more relevant. The location also helps the organization build connections with local journalists and civil society groups, strengthening its work on the ground.

What is the OCCRP Adani investigation?

OCCRP's Adani reporting refers to a series of investigations into the Adani Group, an Indian conglomerate active in several industrial sectors. The investigations have examined allegations of financial misconduct and questionable practices linked to Adani's operations in several countries.

An important aspect of this work is how OCCRP exposed the complexity of the business networks, and of the corruption, that can emerge when companies operate across multiple jurisdictions. Through these investigations, OCCRP aims not only to inform the public but also to drive meaningful change in regulation and corporate practice.
